Training and capacity building of functionaries is critical for success of any development programme, more so in rural development. Training helps in increasing the productivity of the employees that helps the organization to achieve its long-term goals. APARD, as the State Institute of Rural Development (SIRD) of Andhra Pradesh, has been playing key role in capacity building and training of Panchayat Raj Elected Representatives and functionaries of Rural Development and other Departments. Consequently, it contributes for effective implementation of Government Programmes in rural areas.

APARD has been conducting a number of training programmes covering wide range of issues relating to rural areas. The focus of trainings at APARD is to develop management skills, organizational abilities, leadership qualities and decision making skills of the clientele groups. APARD has been planning training programmes in a systematic way and prepared this training calendar for the year 2011-12 which will be immensely useful to all the participants.

Message

A host of welfare programmes sponsored by Government of India and state government aims to facilitate rapid socio-economic progress in the rural areas and ensure sustainable development of the rural poor. During the implementation of these planned initiatives, a qualitative improvement in the delivery system at the grass root level is to be achieved. It can be possible only when the stake holders comprising from the line departments, elected representatives and officials of the Panchayat Raj (PR) and Rural Development (RD) Department, are sensitized and equipped with the required skills and knowledge. Hence, capacity building and training is a key tool in the overall strategy of sustainable development. At the state level, AMR-APARD has taken up this responsibility and is the apex training institute for Panchayat Raj and Rural Development in Andhra Pradesh.

APARD has a number of dedicated multi-disciplinary centers working in different areas such as Decentralized Planning & Administration, Natural Resource Management, Land Administration, Women and Child Development, Disaster Management, Social Empowerment, Water and Sanitation etc. These centers conduct a variety of training programmes to build capacities of the elected representatives, functionaries and NGOs. Besides this, AMR-APARD also publishes a monthly magazine to enhance its reach.

I am happy to know that APARD brings out the training calendar for the year 2011-12. The training calendar contains a well balanced mix of capacity building programmes for various categories of functionaries.

I wish that AMR-APARD will grow as leading training and capacity development institute in Rural Development in the Country.

R.SUBRAHMANYAM

Training Strategy

Training programs conducted by APARD are a mix of face-to-face direct training and distance learning, which includes satellite based training, video conferencing and e-learning. APARD has adopted a multi-pronged training approach, which consists of 1) Direct training, and 2) Cascading mode of training. This allows the trainings to reach out large number of people more effectively.

Direct Training Programs Face-to-Face institutional training programmes at APARD's campus and at its 5 Extension Training Centers is arranged for all key functionaries. Direct training is imparted for a period of three to six days

Cascading Mode of Training is adopted for bigger groups like Ward Members and other grass root level functionaries. Suitable trainers are identified, who may be NGOs, Retired Officials, or Elected Representatives. These trainers are subjected to rigorous training at APARD in using participatory methodologies for training the elected representatives, and they in turn reach out to larger groups of participants at various levels and train them. This mode of training works on the principle of Training of Trainers (ToT). As it is not always possible to bring all the elected representatives and PRI functionaries to APARD to offer on-campus training, APARD has adopted this highly effective approach for increasing the reach of its training programs.
